Accuracy limits for vacancies, sources and automated decisions.

Information only

The site is not a recruitment agency, employer or vacancy platform operator. It aggregates public signals and does not guarantee a vacancy's accuracy, completeness, legality or availability.

Verify the source

Verify the employer, terms, date, domain and contact before applying. Never transfer money or identity documents without confirming the recipient.

Automated processing

Classification, deduplication and relevance scoring can be wrong. Results are not legal, financial, career or immigration advice and must not be the sole basis of a significant decision.

Liability

To the extent permitted by law, maintainers are not liable for indirect loss, third-party conduct, source downtime or decisions based on site data. Mandatory consumer and other non-waivable rights remain unaffected.

Access and protection-handling capabilities

Browser, proxy and anti-bot signal adapters are technical examples for testing systems the user owns, authorised security research and access the user is legally entitled to perform. Their presence does not authorise bypassing authentication, CAPTCHA, paywalls, blocks, contractual restrictions or another party's technical protection.

Maintainers do not direct or control independent deployments. Users remain responsible for configuration, targets and lawful acquisition and reuse of data. This clause does not exclude liability where exclusion is prohibited by law.

Removal requests

If a vacancy, link or description infringes rights or contains inaccurate or unnecessary personal data, send the repository owner the URL and basis. Material may be hidden during review and removed without admission of liability.
